The first "German" of the season will be given this evening in Franzheim's Hall, on Main street. The reputation of Miss Jeffreys-Lewis and the dramatic company supporting her in "La lielle Russe" is most excellent, and patrons of the Opera House on Saturday, when two performances of the play will be given, can expect to witness a most interesting piece, most cleverly acted. Mr. J. Newton Gotthold, who is too well known in this city to require special notice, finds in "Captain Brand" a part to which he is eminently adapted, and plays it with a force and carnestness that has won distinguished praise. Miss Jeffreys Lewis is a star whose long and careful training in the heat schools of art in this country and in England has made her an artist of the highest order, and her performances evince an elaborate finish that commends itself to the beholder. Large audiences should great this attraction.

THE UNION RAILROAD

INTERESTING MEETING LAST NIGHT

Of the Special Joint Committee of Councilmen a

A TIMELY PRECAUTION.

Mr. Wise offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That we respectfully request Council to withold the granting of any rights of way over the city's property to any and all railroad companies until the committee shall come to some conclusion regarding the marginal road.

Mr. Wise explained that he suggested this course of action because he understood the P., W. & Ky. railroad would ask Council to grant them the right of way for an additional switch twenty-live feet west of their freight depot, which would occupy all the accessible room between the river's edge and the depot.

Mr. Kimberly said he had heard the same report, and he had also heard on the street the charge that the object of the company in constructing the switch was to shut out the proposed Union Railway. He was disposed to resent any such charge or insinuation. He believed that the switch would be a real necesity to the company as soon as their tion. He believed that the switch would be a real necessity to the company as soon as their line below the creek is completed, as the terms of the ordinance by which they acquired the right of way for the extension compel them to coase all switching and handling of cars on the tracks now used as soon as the extension is completed, and they would therefore have to have some additional room for those purposes.

Other members of the committee, as well as Mr. Wise, disclaimed any intention to make any insinuation as to the Pittsburgh Wheeling & Kentucky's intentions, but they thought it was not unreasonable to ask Council to defer action on that company's application until the investigations of this committee were completed, and their final report made. The resolution was finally adopted.

SOME COMPORTING ASSURANCES.

Mr. Peterson said he had received lette from the officials of the South Pennsylvan

Mr. Peterson said he had received letters from the officials of the South Pennsylvania road, in which were assut ances that the company was more desirous of coming here than they ever were before. They are now taking steps to complete the surveys and estimates of the route in this county, which looks as if they meant business.

Mr. Hall said he had also seen a letter from one of the leading officials of the South Pennsylvania road, giving the assurance that they desired to come to Wheeling, and intended to do so if they could have access to the shipping points in the city. On this point the assurance was given by another gentleman present that the road would have he difficulty in securing at least one-third of the freight traffic of the city. He had talked to numerous large shippers, and many of them said they would enter tate au agreement to give the road a large portion of their transportation business. The shortness of the route to the coke region would give the mey road practically a monopoly of that kind of traffic.

ADVANTABLES OF THE EOAB.

The advantages of the South Pennsylvania were very clearly shown by the statement that the freight on coke to Wheeling is $1 per for more than to Pittsburgh. As it takes about a ton and a half of coke to a ton of iron, the difference in favor of Pittsburgh in the manufactured iron is $1.50. Iron might sell at such a price that Wheeling manufacturers would lose 50 cents a ton, and Pittsburgh make $1. By the building of the new road Wheeling would be put on an equality with Pittsburgh, and this would not only give the manufacturers now located here a decided advantage over Pittsburgh men, on account of the superiority of the coal here, but would also create a boom in now manufactories.

It was the sense of the committee that the route on both sides of the creek should be carefully viewed, and the one seemingly the most desirable be surveyed, together with that portion of the river route not already surveyed.

The goods are shown in large show cases, placed in the windows, and are worthy of an inspection. They were purchased for the Christmass trade, and are beautiful specimens of glass-cutting.
